farmers' wives and daughters and their improved education and intelligence as one of the foremost causes of the improved condition of our farming at the present time. This was a very strong argument, and he hoped so far at least the rights of the ladies would be conceded at all coming trials.

George Peabody, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, was next announced, and made a very brief address.

Leicester Smith, a professional friend and a practitioner of farming, was next announced. He was a representative of the old Massachusetts Society for the Promotion of Agriculture, and gave a short account of what the society had done in the many years of its existence, its offerings of premiums, its establishment of county fairs, its promotion of a cattle and sheep show, and its work in the field of agriculture.

John C. Stoddard was called to speak for the Agricultural College. He had heard gentlemen here regret that they were not farmers, and he reminded them that the college was open to them. He did not know that the college was open to all, including doctors and lawyers and ministers at the college, for he had not forgotten the old saying of a quaint character, that no person was ever so poor as to be compelled to go to college on a peddler's cart to learn human nature and common sense. He believed the college was raising up a class of young men who would be good farmers, and he invited them to go to the college, and to rejoice in the fact that they went back to the farm, or went into the learned professions, self-reliant, pure hearted and courageous.

John T. Upton, responded for past members of the Board, and said it was really the farmers themselves and their wives who constituted the body of this company. They had a right to a good dinner. In conclusion, he said there was another good reason for the annual dinner, that was the wine glasses on the table had been given by the Agricultural College.

RIPE OLD AGE.

With the modern improvements that have been made for living, life certainly ought to be prolonged beyond its previous limit.

We involuntarily express our thanks whenever we read of a man, like the lawyer Horace Goodwin, of Philadelphia, who has come to his eighty-fourth year, and is still in full vigor.

He is a man of great energy and prosperous industry.

READ AND RUN.

EULOGY OF GEORGE PEABODY.

The internal revenue returns show that business is certainly very flourishing in Boston. Boston thinks of building Beausell Hill, from Park street across to Bowdoin Square. The last discharge at the Charlestown Navy Yard was not on record, but was very large. The Charlestown teachers are divided in opinion as to whether the abolition of schools has worked well or not.

The farmers in Rhode Island are not to be allowed to shut or prorate grain even at their own land.

— The Louisville Journal thinks that such men as Mr. Bergh are but far few, and not to be thought of.

— Ohio is about to give five thousand dollars for a monument to the late Pres. Grant.

— The Boston news has been discovered by a party of winter travellers at the White Mountain, thousands of birds being congregated.

— Prof. Agassiz is too ill even to answer his correspondence. He has overworked, and must now rest.

— Newgate statistics show that more than half the prisoners and attempts to murder are due to liquor.

— American credit has not stood so high in England as it does now.

— The war is certainly ill, and it is not unlikely that he will be ill on any day.

— The Public debt was diminished just four million in the month of January.

— The Circuit Court is understanding scientific observation in Boston.

— The State of San Francisco, formerly of Park church in this city, has had a joyful reception on his return home this week.

— Dickens has got through six of the twelve readers, which he is giving as farewell reading.

— The nominations of Gen. Francis A. Walker, as Superintendent of the Census, are mounted a most fitting. He is the son of Hon. George Walker, of Boston.

— Girls, who used to throw out crums and scraps of meat, and now and then hang out a mealy bone, for the birds who stay all winter, are decided demoralizers.

— A decided demoralizer, and most ungrateful to the Boston Massacre, March 5th.

— There is a story going round now that Dr. Livingston, the African explorer, has been buried as a wizard.

— Boston bankers, taken by our army to Africa, will no doubt be restored to their owners, Mrs. Robert E. Lee, by Congress.

— Morpheus, the famous daneuse, shows that she appreciates our profession by purchasing a fine pair in Billerica, where she intends to settle.

— Kentucky has been making ice of late, as well as ourselves.

— Congress is going to Rhenish.

— Rhode Island is by no means to be found fault with for proposing to pay jurors better wages.

— An unloosed long, weighing seven hundred and thirty pounds, is ports at Woburn. Such a swine was hanging in a dealer's place in this city last Saturday, said by J. A. Harwood, Esq., of Littleton, Mass.

— New York lawyers, some of them, compute fully equal with the theives.

— The five Boston Bank robbers have deviated from their plunder, taking twenty thousand dollars.

— A party of three women have opened a regular banking and brokerage business in Wall Street.

— Twenty-one hundred Germans, January 1st, are to be found in New York in the month of January.

— Education is the order of the day.

— It is said by many how the good people of a former generation could get along without teachers. They must be bold enough in the winter to let them all go, and then we are to be told.

— The observer observes that the name is often larger than the man behind it.

— Horse-fest is fast growing in favor in Europe.

— The Farmers will hold Bedding shortly.

— The New York distillers are frosty by the cold.

— There are some clergymen in New England, it is said, who will not marry a couple who have not been courting at least one year.

— The Great Eastern Steamship has just arrived in New York, and is to sail to Bombay, which she is to proceed to from that port in the Arabian Sea and Persian Gulf to Suez.

— The English Parliament takes up the trial of the Pacific Ocean.

— The English volcano has been discovered in the Pacific Ocean.

— A petition is making ready for Congress praying for a reduction of the cost of materials for the construction of ships.

— Madame Catheray, wife of the Russian Minister at Washington, replied to the President on receiving a bouquet from him—"I believed to that you gathered only laurels, but now I see you gather other plants and flowers."

— The household are to be down to the last of the trial classification of the newly funded debt.

— Kerone is allowed to kill more than steam-boat and railway accidents together.

— New York is studying how to make her literature really popular, as our Public Library is to be opened from that port in the Arabian Sea and Persian Gulf to Suez.
